NET Sparkling Classrooms

Sparkling Classrooms is a one-day course to help you create outstanding lessons. Designed for teachers and leaders in primary schools, it is based on the National Education Trust's work in schools and classrooms nationally and internationally. The day will provide practical tips to create great classrooms – through both teaching and learning.

The course is led by Roy Blatchford, Director of the National Education Trust and former HMI. Roy is Deputy Chair of the Teachers' Standards Review for the Department for Education.
